

WINNERS AT GRAVESEND.

THE JOCKEYS STILL CAUSE TROUBLE.
FEATURES OF A RAINY DAY'S SPORT—REJOICING
OVER JUDGE MERWIN'S DECISION.

Another disagreeable day greeted racegoers at Gravesend yesterday. Moisture pervaded everything. A gale of wind drove the rain directly into the rear grandstand, so that everybody crowded to the rear seats. A fair card was run off, but the racing was sadly marred by the outrageous conduct of the jockeys. Horsemen and bettors were united in the opinion that it is a mistake to deprive the starter of the power to punish unruly jockeys. Fines and lectures by the stewards have no effect, even if the former mode of punishment increases the revenues of the Jockey Club. The prevailing opinion among owners yesterday was that the starter should be armed with a magazine shotgun and have the power to use it at his discretion. No particular jockey caused the trouble, although Taral was called to the steward's box and cautioned. Each one tried his best to exceed the others in obstinacy and stupidity. Judge Merwin's decision in regard to the Ives Pool law caused everybody at the track to rejoice, as it is generally believed that the decision effectively settles the pretensions of Peter the Ponderous, who relentlessly prosecuted the racing officials at Gravesend.

The stewards are expected to add a new racing rule which will compel all horses to be ridden out for third place or better. The Tribune has always favored the French pool system of betting, and has advocated time and again that all betting should be confined to the mutual, or French system. If, however, the mutuals should be dispensed with, a great many persons believe that 1-2-3 betting should be abolished all together.

Aphause, who won the first race yesterday, carried a large amount of money for her owners and a select contingent who bet on her as if the race was merely an exercise gallop for the Kentucky Derby. Herkimer was the favorite, however, as the "ope" and form players, together with M. F. Dwyer's money, kept his odds down to 3 to 4 on. The Sister to Jim Douglas filly was also played by her owner, J. G. Hollingsbee, and the Sheephead Bay contingent. Herkimer was first away, with Aphause last, as she was slow to break. When she did start, however, she shot by her dazed Aphause remained in front the entire distance, winning as she pleased by three lengths. Herkimer was second. Monotony finished third, one and a half lengths away. The others were beaten off.

Bilbo, who revels in muddy going, simply romped away from Picknicker and Co., beating them easily, covering the one-and-one-eighth miles in 2:14. A lead was caused by the jockeys, who did not pay the slightest attention to the starter in the third race. The delay upset all the bets, and many of the younger jockeys were put out by the delay. Tanager was 30 to 1, won the race, getting the first race of the season of 1894 for the Belmont Stable. St. Vincent was second and Chieftain third.

Nahma, who was the favorite, won the fourth race easily from Jersey Belle, with Baroness third. As was the case for the Guizelle Stakes and was worth about $350, it caused much comment as to the modus operandi of the three-year-olds that are out this year.

Hoy won the fifth race in a gallop, with Taral second and Old Dominion third. The race was run off for the Guizelle Stakes and was worth about $350. It caused much comment as to the modus operandi of the three-year-olds that are out this year.

Hoy won the fifth race in a gallop, with Taral making a bluff or "kidding" finish. Madstone was second and Old Dominion third.

Dobbin was the top-heavy favorite of the day, met Austin, the runner-up. Sir Knight and Lady Adams in the sixth race. M. F. Dwyer made one of his pluners on Dobbin, John Cooper and Aurelian were nibbled at, and Sir Knight and Lady Adams were beaten off. The lead, with Aurelian and Dobbin after her. At the turn into the backstretch Lady Adams had enough, so that with a few strides back she had to take over. Dobbin, a Austrian import, had opportunity and opened a gap of four lengths. Sirs on Dobbin attempted to close the gap all the way down the backstretch, but was unable to do so. By the time of the finish the last two were neck and neck. Dobbin gradually caught up, but could not get his head beyond Baroness's flank, who won the race, to the dismay of the pluners. Dobbin was greatly distressed after the race, showing plainly that he is not up to his best form.
